Supporting Hawaii's Child Care Needs

Child Care & the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA)

We're all unique...

Child care professionals know every child is unique. Meeting the needs of individual children is something child care providers understand. The Americans with Disabilities Act is a federal law, enacted in 1990, that provides child care professionals with an exciting opportunity to serve children with special needs or disabilities. The law guarantees that children with disabilities cannot be excluded from "public accommodations" simply because of a disability. "Public accommodations" refers to private businesses and includes preschools, child care centers, school age child care programs, out-of-school time programs and family child care homes.

Opportunity for inclusion...

The ADA gives the opportunity for child care providers to include children with disabilities in care. Providers, children and parents all benefit when children learn and play together. Including both children with and without disabilities in child care reflects our larger community where people with and without disabilities live, work, and play together. Inclusion contributes to acceptance, improved socialization, and understanding of individual differences. In addition, providers benefit from inclusion by acquiring access to a helpful network of professionals, improving knowledge of child development, they can take advantage of potential tax credits or deductions and cover a larger share of the child care market by meeting a variety of needs.

We all have different abilities...

Some people don't like the word disability because it may give a negative impression of a person's abilities. The ADA uses the term to help prevent discrimination based upon a person's differing abilities. In ADA language, disability means a "physical or mental impairment" that substantially limits one or more of the major life activities of an individual. Major life activities means functions such as breathing, hearing, seeing, speaking, walking, using arms and hands, learning, and working. (Play is the work of children!)

PATCH'S MISSION IS TO SUPPORT AND IMPROVE THE QUALITY AND AVAILABILITY OF CARE FOR THE YOUNG PEOPLE OF HAWAII.

Child Care & the Americans with Disabilities Act

Physical impairment means conditions such as blindness, deafness, seizures, heart disease, cerebral palsy, asthma, and diabetes.

Mental impairment means conditions such as behavior disorders, emotional or mental illness, learning disabilities, and developmental delays.

These are just some examples of different disabilities that children may have, but there are many more.

Usual good policy and practice...

Most child and youth care providers probably already meet requirements of the ADA just by continuing with good policy and practice. An important ingredient of good policy and practice is individual consideration. Most likely, you already talk with parents about any unique needs their child has. Continuing with your practice of providing caring, creative customer service to parents, children and youth is the first step toward compliance with the ADA.

Basic requirements of the ADA...

Child care homes and centers must make reasonable modifications to their policies and practices to integrate children with disabilities into their program unless doing so would constitute a fundamental alteration of the program.

Centers must provide appropriate auxiliary aids and services needed for effective communication with children with disabilities, when doing so would not constitute an undue burden. Centers cannot exclude children with disabilities from their programs unless their presence would pose a direct threat to the health or safety of others or require a fundamental alteration of the program.

Reasonable modifications mean changes that can be carried out without much difficulty or expense. This is individual to each program depending upon nature of the modification, cost and resources of the program. Examples include a change in policy or procedures, removing physical barriers, staff training, providing adaptive equipment.

Auxiliary aids and services include a range of devices or services that help people communicate. Examples are using sign language, interpreters, large print books, or other communication equipment. Hearing aids are excluded.

Undue burden means changes that would result in significant difficulty or expense to the program.

Direct threat means the child's condition poses a significant threat to the health or safety of other children or staff. Providers must evaluate children on an individual basis and cannot determine risk based upon their own personal assumptions.

Some Commonly Asked Questions about Child Care & the ADA

Adapted from the U.S. Department of Justice, Civil Rights Division, Disability Rights Section (for a complete list of questions contact the ADA Information Line)

Q: Does the ADA apply to child care (homes and) centers?

A: Yes. Privately-run child and youth care (homes and) centers - like other public accommodations such as private schools, recreation centers, restaurants, hotels, movie theaters, and banks -- must comply with Title III of the ADA. Child care services provided by government agencies, such as Head Start, summer programs, and extended school day programs, must comply with Title II of the ADA. Both titles apply to a child care center's interactions with the children, parents, guardians, and potential customers that it serves.

Q: How do I decide whether a child with a disability belongs in my program?

A: Child care centers cannot just assume a child's disabilities are too severe for the child to be integrated successfully into the center's child care program. The center must make an individualized assessment of whether it can meet particular needs of the child without fundamentally altering its program. Caregivers should talk to parents or guardians and any other professionals (like educators or health care professionals) who work with the child in other contexts. Often providers are surprised by how simple it is to include children with disabilities in their mainstream programs. Child care centers are not required to accept children who would pose a direct threat or whose presence or necessary care would fundamentally alter the nature of the child care program.

Q: My insurance company says it will raise our rates if we accept children with disabilities. Do I still have to admit them into my program?

A: Yes. Higher insurance rates are not a valid reason for excluding children with disabilities from a child care program. The extra cost should be treated as overhead and divided equally among all paying customers.

Q: Our center specializes in "group child care." Can we reject a child just because she needs individualized attention?

A: No. Most children will need individualized attention occasionally. If a child who needs one-to-one attention due to a disability can be integrated without fundamentally altering a child care program, the child cannot be excluded solely because the child needs one-to-one care. For instance, if a child with Down Syndrome and significant developmental delay applies for admission and needs one-to-one care to benefit from a child care program, and a personal assistant will be provided at no cost to the child care center (usually by the parents or through a government program), the child cannot be excluded solely because of the need for one-to-one care. As in other cases, an individualized assessment is required. The ADA generally does not require centers to hire additional staff or provide constant one-to-one supervision of a particular child with a disability.

Q: What about children whose presence is dangerous to others? Do we have to take them, too?

A: No. Children who pose a direct threat--a substantial risk of serious harm to the health and safety of others--do not have to be admitted. The determination that a child poses a direct threat may not be based on generalizations or stereotypes about the effects of a particular disability; it must be based on an individualized assessment that considers the particular activity and the actual abilities and disabilities of the individual. To find out whether a child has a medical condition that poses a significant health threat to others, child care providers may ask all applicants whether a child has any diseases that are communicable through the types of incidental contact expected to occur in child care settings. Providers may also inquire about specific conditions, such as active infectious tuberculosis, that in fact poses a direct threat.

Q: One of the children in my center hits and bites other children. His parents are now saying that I can't expel him because his inappropriate behavior is due to a disability. What can I do?

A: The first thing the provider should do is try to work with the parents to see if there are ways of curbing the child's inappropriate behavior. For example, he may need extra naps or changes in his diet or medication. If reasonable efforts have been made and the child continues to bite and hit children or staff, he may be expelled from the program even if he has a disability.

Q: Can I charge the parents for special services provided to a child with a disability, provided that the charges are reasonable?

A: It depends. If the service is required by the ADA, you cannot impose a surcharge for it. It is only if you go beyond what is required by law that you can charge for those services. For instance, if a child requires complicated medical procedures that can only be done by licensed medical personnel, and the center does not normally have such personnel on staff, the center would not be required to provide the medical services under the ADA. If the center chooses to go beyond its legal obligation and provide the services, it may charge the parents or guardians accordingly. On the other hand, if a center is asked to do simple procedures that are required by the ADA -- such as finger-prick blood glucose tests for children with diabetes -- it cannot charge the parents extra for those services. To help offset the costs of actions or services that are required by the ADA, including but not limited to architectural barrier removal, providing sign language interpreters, or purchasing adaptive equipment, some tax credits and deductions may be available.

Q: Our center has a policy to not give medication to any child. Can I refuse to give medication to a child with a disability?

A: No. In some circumstances, it may be necessary to give medication to a child with a disability in order to make a program accessible to that child. While some state laws may differ, generally speaking, as long as reasonable care is used in following the doctors' and parents' or guardians written instructions about administering medication, centers should not be held liable for any resulting problems. Providers, parents, and guardians are urged to consult professionals in their state whenever liability questions arise.

Q: We diaper young children, but we have a policy that we will not accept children more than three years of age who need diapering. Can we reject children older than three who need diapering because of a disability?

A: Generally, no. Centers that provide personal services such as diapering or toileting assistance for young children must reasonably modify their policies and provide diapering services for older children who need it due to a disability. Generally speaking, centers that diaper infants should diaper older children with disabilities when they would not have to leave other children unattended to do so.

Centers must also provide diapering services to young children with disabilities who may need it more often than others their age. Some children will need assistance in transferring to and from the toilet because of mobility or coordination problems. Centers should not consider this type of assistance to be a "personal service."

Q: If an older child has delayed speech or developmental disabilities, can we place that child in the infant or toddler room?

A: Generally, no. Under most circumstances, children with disabilities must be placed in their age-appropriate classroom, unless the parents or guardians agree otherwise.

Q: Must we admit children with developmental delays and include them in all center activities?

A: Centers cannot generally exclude a child just because he or she has a developmental delay. The center must take reasonable steps to integrate a child into every activity provided to others.

PATCH Training

How to Read the PATCH Training Calendar

PATCH's Training Calendar is designed for easy reading. Each class has indicators related to Hawaii's Attitudes, Skills and Knowledge (ASK) Core Areas and Subject Areas (SA) for the Child Development Associate (CDA) credential.

Basic Series (10 classes) - An overview of basic skills to become a successful family child care provider.

Challenging Behaviors Basic Series (7 classes) - This is for experienced caregivers looking to gain in-depth knowledge and strategies for working with children (ages 2-8) who have challenging behaviors.

Quality Care Series (10 classes) - Series designed to support staff in early childhood programs as they engage in the self-assessment process of Hawaii's Preschool Content Standards. Meets professional development criteria for early educators.

Puppet Series (5 classes) - For all early childhood professionals who are interested in using puppets to build literacy skills.

Supporting Play Series (5 classes) - Looks at the methods early childhood professionals can utilize to help children (3-5 years) develop socially and cognitively through play.

WestEd Basic Infant/Toddler Series (10 classes) - Introductory series to working with 0-3 year olds. (Meets I/T licensing requirements).

WestEd Advanced Infant/Toddler Series (10 classes) - Focuses on additional considerations when working with 0-3 year old children. Meets Infant/Toddler licensing requirements.

Introduction to Preschool Series (7 classes) - This is for new preschool staff and will provide an overview of working with preschool-aged children in centers or homes.

Infant/Toddler Series 3 (10 classes) - This series will continue to build on the foundations laid in West Ed Basic and Advanced series for Infants and Toddlers. Meets the DHS requirements for 30 hours of maintaining Infant/Toddler professional development training.

I'm Moving, I'm Learning (5 classes) - This series supports healthy practices in children and families to decrease childhood obesity.

Infant/Toddler Social Emotional (10 classes) - This series examines social emotional development of 0-3 year old children and providing individualized support for those with challenging behaviors. (Meets I/T licensing requirements).

Time To Sign Series (4 classes) - Use of sign language with children and families to communicate through music, movement and play.

8 Subject Areas are utilized for the Child Development Associate (CDA). These indicators are important when looking for specific types of classes to fulfill initial CDA requirements :

- SA 1 - Planning a safe, healthy learning environment
- SA 2 - Steps to advance children's physical and intellectual development
- SA 3 - Positive ways to support children's social and emotional development
- SA 4 - Strategies to establish productive relationships with families
- SA 5 - Strategies to manage an effective program operation
- SA 6 - Maintaining a commitment to your profession
- SA 7 - Observing and recording children's behavior
- SA 8 - Principles of child growth and child development

10 ASK Core Areas are used in Hawaii that are utilized by the CANOES Registry:

- Growth & Development (GD)
- Professionalism (PRO)
- Diversity (DIV)
- Observation & Assessment (OA)
- Health, Safety & Nutrition (HSN)
- Relationships and Guidance (RG)
- Learning Environments (ENV)
- Planning Learning Experiences (PLE)
- Working With Families (WF)
- Program Management (MAN)

Training Guidelines

Reminders About PATCH Training Attendance

Thank you for your diligence as a child care professional and your dedication to your on-going training and development.

When attending PATCH training classes there are a few guidelines to remember:

Sign Up for Classes Ahead of Time: Remember to sign up for PATCH classes in advance by calling your local PATCH office. To register for a class you must pay a $5.00 refundable deposit to PATCH at least three calendar days before the class. Your $5.00 deposit will be returned upon attendance or can be applied to a future class.

Remember to sign in: You will not receive a certificate for a training class if your name does not appear on the sign-in sheet. Please check all your information on the sign-in sheet. Print clearly when correcting errors in your name, address, or telephone number.

Be on time: If you arrive more than 15 minutes late, you will not be allowed to sign in. If you are unable to stay for the full duration of the training, you will not receive a training certificate. In both of these circumstances, your attendance will not be posted in the database for that class.

Likewise, if a trainer is more than 15 minutes late—you may assume that the class has been cancelled due to unforeseen circumstances. We will call you to reschedule the class.

Turn off your cell phone: As a courtesy to the other participants, please turn off the volume of your cell phone or pager.

Adults only please: We love children too, but as a courtesy to other participants, we ask you to make alternative arrangements for child care.

Bring your Record of Training: Please bring your Record of Training (available via the PATCH office) to each class and remember to get the PATCH instructor's signature after each class. When you have completed an entire series, please return the original Record of Training to the PATCH office and we will mail you a Certificate of Completion for the series.

Keep good records: Whether you take a PATCH class or any other training, you should keep track of the trainings you attend for future reference. If you need verification of your PATCH classes, there is a $2.00 fee for a computer printout list of classes taken at PATCH. If you have misplaced your Record of Training sheet, there is a $3.00 fee for a replacement. Duplicate certificates are available for $1.00 each. Please keep in mind that PATCH often deletes information that is more than 5 years old to make room for the following year.

PATCH strives to coordinate its Training Program (and other programs) to fit the needs of Hawaii's child care professionals. If you have comments or suggestions, please contact your local PATCH office or send us an email at: Patch@PatchHawaii.org.

Oahu Island News

By Jordana Ferreira,
Oahu Coordinator

April showers bring May flowers and we're excited for Spring to arrive! We thank Oahu Family Child Care providers for attending our winter provider social on February 21 at Duke's in Waikiki. Thanks also to our Respite Providers for attending the Respite Social at Bravo's restaurant in Aiea on March 15th. We had a great time and hope you did too! We'll host another social for the spring season with more details to come. As many know, there are a lot of activities on Oahu during the spring season so continue reading for a glimpse of what's to come!

April 10: Bring your keiki and join PATCH and other community service providers for a + day filled with information, activities and fun at the 10th Annual Waianae Keiki Spring Fest.

April 13: Healthy Child Care Hawaii Hot Topics Seminar at Kaneohe (see p. 11 for details)

April 18: Waikiki Aquarium event (see below).

May 1: Lei Day Celebration, Kapiolani Park in Waikiki.

May 2-3: Hawaii Book and Music Festival, Frank F. Fasi Grounds, Honolulu Hale. Your kids will love this FREE event honoring books, storytelling and music!

May 16: Hawaii Visitor Industry 37th Annual Charity Walk — WALK to raise money for PATCH and other local agencies. Call PATCH to join a walking group.

May 16-17: Join PATCH at the New Baby Expo 2015. A great opportunity for those with young keiki to get a taste of what services and items are out there.

May 25: Lantern Floating Ceremony at Magic Island in Ala Moana Beach Park—a family-friendly event to celebrate lost loved ones and hope for a harmonious and peaceful future.

July 24: "club PATCH" Annual Benefit Dinner—Join us to celebrate Hawaii's heroes! We'll announce the winner of "Hawaii's Favorite Preschool Teacher & Child Care Provider Contest". Silent auction, Live entertainment, prizes and more! See page 2 invitation.

We are seeking event sponsors, donors, and underwriters: please contact Jenny 808-550-3851.

Maui County News

Welcoming Laura Kjenstad,
Maui Coordinator

Aloha to Maui's new Coordinator, Laura Kjenstad. Laura joins us with extensive knowledge and experience working in early care and education. Welcome aboard!

Come on down to the Maui Keiki Fest, April 11th at Maui College. There will be lots of food and fun activities.

This quarter we will be running a new class in Kihei, Medication Administration in Childcare. This class looks at how to develop a medication policy, sample forms and scenarios you may encounter in the child care environment.

At this Saturday's Hawaii Association for the Education of Young Children—Maui Chapter Conference, participants in Leia Snyder's Sign Language class learned ASL to Taylor Swift's "Shake it Off" song! Leia is PATCH's Career Counselor and also a PATCH trainer. PATCH Time to Sign classes teach sign language to use with children and families to communicate through music, movement and play. A Holiday Celebration

20 family child care providers and preschool educators attended the PATCH holiday celebration and training by Tom Copeland. As usual, Tom's training was informative and fun—just in time for the end of the year and tax preparation season. Everyone enjoyed the breakfast buffet and facilities at the Courtyard Kauai Coconut Beach. Each attendee received a gift from PATCH. MAHALO to Kauai United Way for providing funds for this event.

This Spring, West Hawaii will be the host to several events for children and families. Come up to Waimea for the Keiki Festival and Join PATCH at our booth for some fun keiki activities.

Come up to Waikoloa for some fellowship with the ECE learning community and get some great training too. While there, stop by PATCH's booth for some CANOES Registry forms, scholarship apps, and to get signed up for classes. And don't forget about the VICW! Contact PATCH to sign up for our walking team or to volunteer at our keiki activity booth behind the finish line. Or just stop by and we will paint your face .

On March 21st, Hilo PATCH will be having a rummage sale in their office to raise funds for its annual Provider Appreciation Day. Please lend your support by donating new or gently used items to the Hilo office at 26 Waiānue Avenue. In May, PATCH will be honoring our child care providers with its annual Provider Appreciation Day. Please check back as the date and location will be determined.
